JOHN JAMES ADAMS - General Manager.

Born: Fort William, Ontario, June 14, 1895.

The senior statesman among the General Managers in point of continual service in the National League is Jack Adams. Adams is now starting his 40th season of direct association with professional hockey and his 31st year at the helm of the Red Wings.

The genial Fort William Irishman has indeed become one of hockey's living legends. From his initial playing days in the Copper Country of Michigan through his brilliant ten-year professional span in Toronto, Vancouver, and Ottawa, Adams left behind him an outstanding playing record when he came to Detroit in the fall of 1927.

At that time he boasted a wealth of hockey knowledge gained the practical way, on the ice. He had set a Western League record for scoring, and he had started and finished his playing span in identical fashion, by being a member of a Stanley Cup winning team.

This, however, was only a prelude to a more brilliant career in the professional ranks, for Adams almost single handedly built the Red Wing organization and the game of hockey in the midwest. He made his team perhaps the best-known of the United States' clubs in the National League. Certainly it has become the most successful in results achieved.

His play patterns and his unerring judgment of personnel and his farm system have become models for the other clubs.

However, Adams' record of achievement in hockey is not limited to his contributions to Detroit and its organization. While the Red Wings are his first love, his all-encompassing affection for the game of hockey itself has kept him with a youthful, everchanging outlook. This has reflected itself in many contributions at a league level, which have reflected themselves in the overall progress of the game.

Examples are the present penalty rule whereby a man is discharged from the box following an opponent's score; ice resurfacing between periods; the players' pension society; many of the phases of agreement between profesaional and amateur hockey between the National League and minor leagues.

All of these have stemmed from Adams' unceasing single mindedness for the game. He is dedicated not only to his team and his game but the progress thereof. Many promotional schemes of present day hockey can also trace their beginnings to Adams' theories. The present National telecasts of hockey reflect his belief in the value of television, which has caused the Detroit home games to be aired regularly since 1948.

Through the years and with all of his devotion to the game, Adams has still remained a man so active that he has found time to participate civically as well as at his profession and to lead a full, rich life.

His appearance as a candidate for the Detroit City Council a few years ago, his presence on the board of trustees of one of Detroit's larger hospitals are but a few proofs of his civic mindedness.

JOHN JAMES ADAMS - General Manager (Con't.)

As an individual, he is known as a gracious host, and despite his abstinence from tobacco and alcohol is a most gregarious person, sought after at sports gatherings. He is a raconteur unparalleled in hockey.

Adams finds time to avidly follow the fortunes of the other big league sports teams in the Detroit area and follows them with the same zeal he displays in all hockey matters.

His love of people has caused him in recent years to spend much of his summers traveling the state in the interest of hockey, speaking and feeling the pulse of the Michigan sports public.

He is an avid reader with a most general taste in literature and is a regular theater goer, preferring live spectator entertainment.

He and Mrs. Adams have made their permanent residence in Detroit for over 20 years, and his long association with the Red Wings is perhaps equalled for successful longevity only by the late Connie Mack for devotion and success to a single club in sports.

JAMES DONALD SKINNER - Coach

Born: Selkirk, Manitoba, January 12, 1917.

Senior coach of the National League is rotund Jimmy Skinner, the sincere, affable pilot of the Red Wings, who is starting his fourth season at the helm of the club.

Skinner, who is equally known for his hockey ability and for being a leading food purveyor at Lockport, Manitoba, is "a players' coach". Jimmy himself never progressed beyond the minor league stages of play, and his professional career was brief. In that time, however, he developed qualities of leadership and understanding of hockey players and an ability to teach, which he has carried successfully with him through his coaching career, both with the Wings and several of their junior clubs. It is perhaps his patience in correcting an individual fault in a single player that marks Skinner as one of the most thorough pilots in the game today, and his record of two National League championships in three seasons bares testimony to the success of his results.

His activity began in the Winnipeg area, where he played minor and junior hockey, moving to Flin Flon to continue his senior career. Here he was scouted by Detroit and signed as a professional prospect in 1944.

A season at Indianapolis and two years in Omaha where he captained the Knights and served as an unofficial aide to coach Mud Bruniteau.

In 1947 at Jack Adams' suggestion, Skinner retired as a player to begin a coaching career with the Windsor Spitfires, then Detroit's number one junior club. He remained in the junior ranks through a franchise move to Hamilton and lists such present National Leaguers as Terry Sawchuk, Marcel Pronovost, Glen Skov, Dutch Reibel, Johnny Wilson and Larry Hillman as graduates of his system.

The resignation of Tommy Ivan as Wing coach to assume the Chicago General Managership in mid-summer of 1954 provided the opportunity for Skinner's step into professional ranks. He took his first step in classic fashion writing a page in League history when his team became the first, under a freshman coach, to win both the Prince of Wales Trophy and the Stanley Cup.

A strong competitor both on the ice and on the bench in his junior days, Skinner has presented a more placid personality to the National League. He appears to be the type of coach who inspires respect without developing the baldness and ulcers which are seemingly physical manifestations of so many of his fellow men.

Married and the father of three, Skinner maintains permanent residence in Windsor, although the family returns to Lockport each summer, where he joins his brothers and father in the management of Manitoba's most illustrious drive-in restaurant.

Basically Skinner has achieved the philosophic mirth of humanity and leadership, which have enabled him to be a stern disciplinarian and still to retain his players' touch.

ALGER ARBOUR - Defense.

Born: Sudbury, Ontario, November 1, 1932. Height 6'. Weight 180 lbs.

Close followers of the Red Wings were not surprised when at the close of the 1956-57 campaign Jack Adams dubbed the bespectacled Arbour as one of a half dozen untouchables whom he would not consider trading or selling, for the lanky defense man, given his first opportunity at a regular National League berth, proved himself a full-fledged rear guard.

The 24-year-old Sudbury youngster started in the Detroit organization as a right wing with the Windsor Spitfires under Jimmy Skinner. One season was enough to cause Skinner to shift him to a defense post, and he performed so well that at the end of his second year of junior play he turned professional to finish the season's schedule and playoffs with the Edmonton Flyers. Here he was a standout, being a key factor in the Flyers' successful drive to the Western League playoff championship.

The following fall after a fine showing at training camp, Arbour started the season as the Wings' fifth defense man. However, he saw little active service and was shipped off to Sherbrooke to finish the year. Subsequently, he spent two full seasons on various Wing farm clubs, returning to Detroit briefly in the 1956 playoffs as an injury replacement.

Last fall he was for the third straight year a member of the Edmonton Flyers, but when Larry Hillman failed to develop, was promoted to the Wings in early December. He was selected by the For'Em Club, the official fan club, as their Unsung Hero at the close of the season and is regarded as one of the most promising young defense men in the National League.

Arbour still maintains residence in Sudbury with his wife and child.

CUMMING SCOTT BURTON - Right Wing.

Born: Sudbury, Ontario, May 12, 1936. Height 5'10". Weight 170 lbs.

A nephew of the late Larry Aurie, one of hockey's immortals, hard-going, fearless, right wing Cummy Burton is now bidding for a regular spot in the National League.

Should Burton attain his objective as a full-fledged member of the Red Wings, he will be the first player to wear uniform #6 since it was retired at the end of his uncle's brilliant career.

The Sudbury native played his junior hockey for the Wing's sponsored Hamilton club, turning professional at the tail end of the 1955-56 season. He saw limited service in a few league and playoff games for the Wings but had little opportunity to display his wares.

Last fall Burton began his regular career in the salaried ranks with the Edmonton Flyers. A mid-season appendectomy slowed him up. However, he finished with a rush to bring himself into contention for his place with the Wings.

An extremely popular, fun-loving youngster who contributes much to the morale of his team, Burton is unmarried. He makes his permanent residence with his parents in Sudbury.

Born: Edmonton, Alberta, April 3, 1933. Height 5'7". Weight 170 lbs.

Spirit characterizes the freshman National League season of stocky, personable Billy Dea (Day). The popular left wing scored 15 goals for a most creditable showing in his first regular season of National League play.

True, much of Dea's effectiveness came in the early stages of the race, and like so many rookies he trickled off somewhat as the season progressed. However, it is felt that with the maturity of a full season's N. H. L. play behind him Billy will come into his own.

Dea broke into the salaried ranks with the New York organization, turning professional in the fall of 1953 with the Rangers themselves.

Actually he had appeared in three games under an amateur tryout agreement the preceding spring, scoring two goals in his three appearances with Saskatoon.

His debut with the Rangers was at right wing. Unfamiliar and overeager, he was sent to the Western League after three weeks to begin a two season stint with Vancouver. In his brief appearance, however, he had impressed the Red Wing management.

Thus, when Detroit traded Dave Creighton and Bronco Horvath to New York in August, 1955, they insisted that Dea be one of their acquisitions in the trade. He was moved to Edmonton where he compiled a 71 point season in the 1955-56 campaign.

Last fall he again appeared slated for the Flyers when illness to both Ted Lindsay and Tom McCarthy gave him a shot and a left wing berth in the Detroit lineup. He responded so well that he was a sure bid to win a National League contract, and in his freshman season proved to be one of two high-scoring freshmen in the league.

A bachelor, Dea makes his permanent home in Edmonton.

ALEXANDER PETER DELVECCHIO - Center

Born: Fort Williams, Ontario, December 4, 1931. Height 6'. Weight 185 lbs.

The hard luck champion of the Red Wings, Alex Delvecchio, is regarded by General Manager, Jack Adams, as one of the greatest centers in the game today. It was this which caused Adams to sign him to a contract for the coming season, his seventh with the Wings, withing 48 hours at the end of the playoffs last April.

Delvecchio fully rates his hard luck title. "Fats", as he is called by his teammates, suffered a fractured ankle in the second game last season. Yet despite a 22 game absence, he finished in a tie for 20th place among the league scorers and was topped in Red Wing goal production by only two teammates.

The preceding year he was equally unfortunate. In his most brilliant season he was overshadowed by the work of Jean Beliveau and Tod Sloan, who came up with stellar performances in their own right.

The big boy from the Lakehead has grown from a carefree, fun-lovying youngster into a sound performer. In addition to steady play with a variety of linemates in regular season competition, Delvecchio has been a most potent playoff producer for the Wings.

He is a streak player. Three years ago he equalled a club mark by scoring golas in five consecutive games and has 21 in his lifetime total in the playoffs to add to his regular season total of an even 100. Alex is only the 12th player to reach the century mark in Detroit livery.

Originally scouted in his native Fort William, he moved to Oshawa in 1950. Coached by the immortal Larry Aurie, he finished second in the Junior O. H. A. individual scoring race and was turned professional the following fall. Assigned to Indianapolis, he won his spurs in a bare six games, was promoted to the Red Wings before November and has remained a most valuable cog ever since.

Alex' greatest hockey league recognition came in his second season. His 59 point total, highest of his National League career, won him the center berth on the second All Star Team.

He maintains his permanent residence in Fort William where he is employed in the off season as a brewery representative. Delvecchio is married and the father of two.

WILLIAM DINEEN - Right Wing

Born: Arvida, Quebec, September 18, 1932. Height 5'11". Weight 180 lbs.

The most studious member of the Detroit organization is husky, right wing Bill Dineen. Dineen, starting his fourth season in the National League, is the most recent player on the Red Wing squad who has made the direct jump from junior O. H. A. competition to the National League.

He turned professional with Detroit in the fall of 1953, following his graduation from Toronto's St. Micheals where he has established both an outstanding scholastic and playing record.

Studiously inclined, Dineen has pursued his education each summer studying at the University of Ottawa to obtain a degree in civil engineering.

Dineen's best season was his freshman year. Primarily a right wing but seeing some duty at center ice, he tallied 17 goals to receive the Detroit Sports Broadcasters Trophy as the outstanding first-year Red Wing.

The next two seasons saw his offensive output decline as he concentrated primarily on defensive tactics. Last year a severe knee injury, suffered in the opening game, kept him out of action almost two months, and in all he missed a quarter of a season without being able to establish himself in a regular position.

A quiet, soft-spoken youngster, Dineen is a fine physical specimen. He prides himself on his 50 push-ups each morning. He is possessed of a deceptively heavy shot and is one of the physically strongest players in the league.

The injury he suffered last year took him out of the lineup for the first time in his professional career after 211 consecutive N. H. L. games.

He was married to the former Patricia Sheedy of Detroit during the past summer.

Born: Palmerston, Ontario, May 26, 1930. Height 6'. Weight 185 lbs.

One of the true handy men of the Red Wings is lanky Lorne Ferguson. The Scottish lad came to Detroit from Boston mid-way in the 1955-56 campaign together with Murray Costello in trade for Real Chevrefils and Jerry Toppazzini.

Although primarily a left wing, Ferguson saw considerable service on the right flank last season, and it was here that he was most effective. Late in the campaign he developed considerable skill as a penalty killer and established what is believed to be some sort of National League mark by scoring two goals in one game when his team was shorthanded.

Deceptive in appearance, Ferguson looks almost frail on the ice yet is a surprising, rugged and durable specimen.

He turned professional with the Boston Bruins when he was but 19 years of age and began his career in the salaried ranks with Tulsa of the now defunct United States league. He scored 70 points in as many games and won promotion to the Bruins for the final three games of the 1949-50 campaign. He spent a year and a half with the Bruins, being farmed out to Hershey mid-way in the 1951-52 season following an injury.

Two full brilliant seasons in which he totaled 70 goals in American League play followed. In 1954 he was back in Boston and remained there until his shift to Detroit.

Lorne is married and has one child. He makes his permanent residence in Kingston.

GUYLE ABNER FIELDER - Center.

Born: Potlach, Idaho, November 21, 1930. Height 5'9". Weight 160 lbs.

Returning for his fourth appearance in a National League uniform is 27-year-old Guy Fielder. Not only is Fielder unique to be a rookie at his age but he has the distinction of being one of the few United States born hockey players to come into the National League in recent years. He is a native of Potlach, Idaho.

The diminutive Fielder made his professional debut with the Chicago Black Hawks at the close of the 1950-51 campaign. The following season he was farmed out to the Western League where, playing for New Westminster, his 75 point total won him the PCHL rookie award.

A year later he was with the now defunct St. Louis Flyers of the American League. Here he scored 83 points, led the league in assists and won the American League rookie award.

He was called up to the Wings for the playoffs, seeing service in five of their six first-round games against the Boston Bruins.

In 1953 he led the Western League in assists, 64, total points 88, and this time was called up conditionally by the Bruins for two playoff games. In 1954-55 it was back to New Westminster where he again topped the Western League in assists, the third straight season he had led the league in assists.

A year later he returned to Seattle to begin a brilliant two season stint, which culminated last year with his 33 goals, 89 assists for a 122 point total, the highest total ever achieved by a professional player in a single season in any league competition. This brilliant showing commended him again to the Detroit management, and arrangements were made for his purchase and elevation to the Wings for the coming season.

Should he display the same stick handling and play making ability in the National League which he has demonstrated in Western League competition, he could become one of the most important centers to enter the N.H.L. since Jean Beliveau.

Married, Fielder makes his permanent home in Seattle.

GORDON HOWE - Right Wing.

Born: Floral, Saskatchewan, March 31, 1928. Height 6'. Weight 195 lbs.

Greatest of all Red Wings, and to many the greatest hockey player of all time, Howe will be starting his eleventh National League season this fall.

The 29-year-old Saskatchewan youngster ranks as the second highest goal scorer in National League history, his 353 goal total putting his within possible achievement of the 400 mark in the upcoming campaign. To this he has added 396 assists for a 749 lifetime point total, the highest ever achieved by a Red Wing and the second highest in league annals.

Howe continued his assault on the N.H.L. history books last year when he led the league in scoring for the fifth time in eleven seasons. His previous four conquests in the Ross Trophy competition came in successive years, 1950-1954, doubling the best effort of any preceding scoring champion. In addition, last season Howe was named the league's most valuable player for the third time in six years and now shares with immortals Eddie Shore and Howie Morenz the distinction of being the only three-time Hart Trophy recipient.

In All Star rating Howe has been named to the first team five times, to the second three, and in only three of his eleven major league seasons has failed to win some recognition.

Included in his achievements are his 95 point total in 1952-53, the league's all time single season high; his being a member of the line which last season set a record for the most points by a single unit in one year; and his unchallenged mark of 20 playoff points set in 1954-55.

At the team level Howe has been even more potent. He has been the Red Wings leading goal scorer for seven consecutive seasons and topped the club in points as well in six of those years. As a result, he has literally owned the local trophies for these feats. In addition, he has captured the Detroit Hockey Writers Award as the team's most valuable player four times in the past six years.

An indestructible player, Gord has missed only six games in eight years, all of them in the 1954-55 campaign.

Howe's story has become a living legend. Originally scouted as a juvenile in Saskatoon by the late Fred Pinckney, Gord moved to Galt in 1945. His age prevented his playing with the Detroit sponsored junior team there. However, merely practicing and growing, he won a professional contract with Omaha the following fall on the strength of scoring two goals in his first pre-season periods as a Red Wing.

A single season of minor league hockey brough him to the Wings when he was but 18 years old. Injury hampered it took him four seasons to establish himself as a star in his own right. Once established, greatness was his.

Howe is equally at home as a shot or play maker. He is a respected defensive player as well as an all-time great on offense. His ambidexterity is perhaps his greatest single effort. Actually, he has had to overcome several serious hockey injuries, the greatest of which was a head injury suffered in the 1950 playoffs which threatened his entire career.

A new laurel came to Howe in May when he was elected to the Michigan Hall of Sports Fame, the only active player among the 13 members of this newly-established group.

Off the ice he is a quiet, soft-spoken individual with a deep seated sense of humor. He has a genuine humility seldom found in an athlete of such great achievements.

He is an avid, skilled golfer and is rated as one of the better amateurs in the Detroit district.

Married and the father of two sons, he now makes Detroit his permanent home. He is associated with baseball star, Al Kaline, in a manufacturing firm and spends much summer off time in public appearances on behalf of hockey and the Stroh Brewery.

WARREN EDWARD GODFREY - Defense.

Born: Toronto, Ontario, March 23, 1931. Height 6'1". Weight 190 lbs.

Starting his third season with the Red Wings and his sixth year in the big time is powerful defense man Warren Godfrey, who is regarded as one of the most promising of the rear guard corps.

Nicknamed Rocky by his Boston teammates when he was a Bruin three years ago, Godfrey came to Detroit in the nine player trade between the two clubs in 1955. He is the only player the Wings secured in the swap who is still in a Detroit uniform.

The husky Toronto blond is a Patrick product. He was first spotted by Ranger General Manager, Muzz Patrick, while playing for Tacoma in the Western League in 1951. When Muzz attempted to purchase him for New York he discovered that older brother, Lynn, has already corralled him for the Bruins. Thus, after a single season of minor league hockey, Godfrey was in the big time.

Warren is primarily noted for his hard hitting tactics. He is a strong puck carrier but has not yet learned to develop his rushing potential.

A smiling, affable, rather ebullient young man, Godfrey is the father of two. He spent the past summer in Detroit pursuing technical studies and making promotional appearances for the Stroh Brewery Company.

His least happy distinction came from having equalled Ted Lindsay's penalty minutes' mark to lead the club in that department last season. In fact, he was the first defense man to be Detroit's top penalty getter since Jack Stewart turned the trick in 1947.

LEONARD PATRICK KELLY - Defense.

Born Simcoe, Ontario, July 9, 1927. Height 5'11½". Weight 180 lbs.

A veteran of ten National League seasons all spent with the Detroit Red Wings, Kelly has become truly one of Detroit's all-time greats. The red-headed tobacco farmer from Simcoe now ranks as the fifth highest point scorer in all Red Wing history and has won more honors than any rear guard in the Detroit annals.

Kelly's achievements are indeed a mark for any young player. He was the original winner of the James Norris Memorial Trophy, three times captured the Lady Byng Award for sportsmanship and has won all star recognition eight times in his ten-year career, being named to the first team on six occasions.

His list of local recognitions is even longer. He has twice been selected to receive the Detroit Hockey Writers Award as the most valuable player and also is a two-time winner of the James Citron Trophy for sportsmanship. His greatest single achievement perhaps was the hat trick against the Boston Bruins October 21, 1954, the only time in modern hockey that a defense man has scored three goals in one game.

Kelly made the jump directly from junior hockey to the National League in the fall of 1947. Outstanding at Toronto's St. Michaels, he reported to the Wings available as a defense man, left wing or center. It is at the former position that he has won his greatest recognition, but actually he has played all three with skill and taken an occasional turn on right wing as well. It was this all-around ability that cost him a first team, All Star berth in 1956. He had played 27 games at left wing, and selectors could not decide for which position he most merited consideration. As a result, he was named to a second All Star defense post.

Slow to anger, despite his red hair, and noted for his abstinence from profanity, Kelly is still a match for anyone who would battle him. He was a championship boxer in college.

Well conditioned, he has missed only 11 games in 10 seasons. He is noted for his proficiency in playing the puck with his skates as deftly as with his stick, and his foot work has made him a well-respected off-ice dancer as well as a strong skater. He also plays a strong golf game in the off season.

At press time Kelly's marital status is uncertain. He is apparently altar bound with Ice Revue star Andra McLaughlin, but thus far has not set a definite date.

During the past two summers the Red Wing captain has traveled for the Stroh Brewery as a public relations representative and found time to make many side trips to his family's tobacco farm at Simcoe.

FORBES KENNEDY - Center.

Born: Dorchester, New Brunswick, August 18, 1935. Height 5'8". Weight 165 lbs.

Peppery little Forbes Kennedy, one of the players obtained from the Chicago Black Hawks in trade for Ted Lindsay and Glenn Hall, is making a determned bid for a Red Wing center berth.

Kennedy, a bare 22 years old, is one of the most recent players to make the jump directly from the junior ranks to the National League. Along with Eddie Kachur, he was purchased for $50,000.00 just a year ago from the Montreal Canadien chain.

Kennedy, a native of Dorchester, New Brunswich is unique in being one of the few maritime born hockey players in the National League.

Prior to coming to the Hawks, he spent three seasons with the Montreal Junior Canadiens and was rated one of the best play makers in junior hockey. Despite his 165 lbs. and 5'8" of stature, Kennedy is rated as one of the best body checking centers in the game today.

Last season he knitted together eight goals and thirteen assists to rate consideration as one of the outstanding rookies in the league, and it is believed that he will have a brilliant future in the Wing organization.

LEONARD LUNDE - Center.

Born: Campbell River, Alberta, November 13, 1936. Height 6'. Weight 170 lbs.

One of the brighter, young prospects in the Detroit organization is blond, Norwegian center Len Lunde, pronounced Lundee. Lunde, a true Westerner, has come through Detroit's Edmonton farm system, first playing junior for the Oil Kings and latterly with the Flyers.

Last year in his first professional season, although he was still young enough to remain in junior competition, Lunde combined 20 goals and 41 assists to rate as the outstanding first-year professional in the Western League. To prove it was no flash in the pan, he scored eight points in eight playoff games.

The big fellow was tabbed as a definite prospect from his first appearance in the Detroit training camp in 1955.

Unmarried, he makes his home in Edmonton.

While it will probably require several seasons to find his big league legs, he appears to have all of the attributes necessary to establish him as a top flight center.

Born: Toronto, Ontario, September 15, 1934. Height 6 2". Weight 190 lbs.

The Detroit management has high hopes for Tom McCarthy, biggest forward candidate on the squad this fall. The pleasant Irish lad came into the Detroit organization a year ago, being drafted from Saskatoon of the Western Hockey League.

In training camp last season he was a standout and seemed slated for a Detroit uniform when an emergency appendectomy and a resultant penicillin reaction sidelined him at a crucial time.

He played three games with the Wings but was sent to Edmonton for the remainder of the season to recuperate. Here again a series of injuries, including a shoulder dislocation and a broken toe, slowed him up. However, in 42 games with the Flyers he put together 18 goals and 19 assists for a creditable 37 point total. This, together with his actual prowess, warranted his present promotion.

McCarthy, a Toronto native, played junior hockey for both Toronto's St Michaels and Marlboros. He was picked up by the New York Rangers in one of the first deals made by New York General Manager Murray Patrick after he took over the post.

McCarthy turned professional in 1955 and spent the season inthe Western League, dividing his time between Vancouver and Saskatoon, where his hard shot and excellent stick handling brought him a 46 point total. It was on this basis that the Wings drafted him, and with his unlucky year behind he seems headed for great things.

Tom makes his permanent home in Toronto. He is unmarried and pursues his trade as an apprentice electrician in the summer

Born: Sundridge, Ontario, December 2, 1934. Height 5'10". Weight 172 lbs.

Making his first true bid for a National League position is quiet, blue-eyed, Irish Bill McCreary.

McCreary came into the Detroit organization in the summer of 1956 when with Tom McCarthy he was drafted from the New York Rangers farm system.

Prior to that, all of his hockey had been played under the Ranger aegis. During his junior days in Guelph he had been called to the parent club for a two-game trial in 1954, and at the close of his junior career a year later he signed his first professional contract and finished the season with the Broadway Blues.

The 1955-56 season saw him dividing his time between Providence and Saskatoon, and it was on this showing that the Red Wings a year ago added him to their family.

He was sent to Edmonton last season, and after a slow start he took hold to lead the team in goal scoring, and in fact to become one of the top scorers in WHL competition.

Now he is ready to make his full bid for the big time.

WILLIAM RONALD McNEILL - Right Wing.

Born: Edmonton, Alberta, January 26, 1936. Height 5'10". Weight 175 lbs.

Among the brightest prospects in the Red Wing organization is blond, personable, right wing Billy McNeill.

Now in his third season as a professional, McNeill appears to have all of the attributes necessary to establish him as a National League starter if he can absorb coaching and direct his energies to self-improvement and the exploitations of his gifts.

Billy has been a red-hot prospect since he first entered the Detroit organization as a member of their junior sponsored Edmonton Oil Kings five years ago. He was a member of that junior club which won the Western Canada championship and progressed to the Memorial Cup finals, and that year played one game with the professional Flyers under a tryout arrangement.

The following fall he was transferred to Hamilton where he thrived on Junior O.H.A. competition so well that he turned professional when he was still 19, entering the salaried ranks with the Flyers rather than playing out his final year as a junior.

McNeill had a creditable first season at Edmonton, although like most freshmen he was far less effective in the last half of the season.

He was again slated for return to the Flyers a year ago. However, his strong play in pre-season exhibition games won him a chance with the Wings, and he was called to the National League during the first month of play. He started with a rush, but as in his preceding professional year, tapered off in the later stages. He finished the season riding the bench.

McNeill's greatest attributes are his physical abilities; his weaknesses, the lack of proper self-direction and harnessing. However, he is still rated as a man with a great potential once the two can be placed in proper combination.

McNeill is married, makes his permanent residence in his native Edmonton.

RENE MARCEL PRONOVOST

Born: Lac a la Tortue, Quebec, June 15, 1930. Height 6'. Weight 180 lbs.

Starting his sixth season as a National League regular, Marcel Pronovost has won recognition as the most successful French-Canadian player in league history not in the Montreal system.

A quiet, studious, serious individual, Pronovost has been a natural leader on and off the ice since first coming into the Detroit organization in 1947.

Originally scouted by Marcel Cote while playing juvenile hockey at Shawinigan Falls, Pronovost came to Windsor as a candidate for the Detroit sponsored Spitfire juveniles.

His studious bent was exemplified by his equal interest in self-betterment in hockey and the English language. His present record proves testimony to his success in both endeavors.

A rushing defense man, Marcel turned professional in 1949 when he was but 19 years old and was assigned to the Omaha Knights of the United States league. He set a league record for point scoring by a defense man, captured the league rookie award and was called up to the Wings as a playoff substitute. He appeared often enough in Detroit's successful Stanley Cup drive to have his name placed on hockey's most historic trophy--one of the youngest players to achieve this honor. The following season Marcel started with the Wings. However, he needed defensive polish and was sent to Indianapolis in mid-year to tutor under Ott Heller. Playing a bare half season for the Capitols, his outstanding work won him a position on the second All Star Team.

Pronovost returned to a Detroit uniform regularly in 1951 and has retained his regular berth since. Like so many of his teammates he has been a pure product of the Detroit organization.

He is married and has two children. In recent summers he has occupied himself with the building of a permanent home in a Montreal suburb, and with perfecting his golf game Pronovost has become perhaps the soundest, all-around linksman among the Red Wings.

He is regarded as the best spoken bi-lingual player in the game.

EARL REIBEL - Center

Born: Kitchener, Ontario, July 21, 1930. Height 5'8". Weight 160 lbs.

The smiling, stubby, little 27-year-old center from Kitchener is starting his fifth regular season in the National League. He has proven his right as a durable, all-around center and may this season receive some additional work at right wing as well.

Reibel is typical of the players in the Detroit organization. Originally scouted by Fred Cox while playing Junior "B" hockey in Kitchener, Dutch was signed, moved to the Windsor Spitfires and started on the climb up the ladder.

Following two seasons of junior tutelage under Jimmy Skinner, Reibel turned professional with the Omaha Knights in 1950. Despite a shoulder separation which kept him idle half of the year, he tallied 38 points.

Promoted to Indianapolis the following fall, Reibel caused some misgivings in the minds of the management because of his size and a happy-go-lucky attitude. The brush cut Kitchener youth, however, quickly dispelled these doubts, leading his team in scoring, finishing fourth in the individual league point race with a 67 total and winning the American League's rookie of the year award.

Dutch was tabbed for a possible Detroit uniform in 1952. However, a motor accident suffered during the summer took its toll. Reibel's eyes were injured, and it was felt that another season in the minors was preferable. As a result, he was sent to Edmonton where he led the Western League in points, 90, and paced the Flyers to the playoff championship.

Four years ago he was started as a regular Red Wing, installed between Lindsay and Howe. He kept the berth until a leg injury slowed him up in mid-December. Then he worked into spot forward assignments until he again won his way back to the big line.

The following season he finished with a scoring rush which was largely credited with enabling the Wings to win their seventh straight National League title. He scored 21 points in the last nine games and led the team in point scoring to break a monopoly held by Lindsay and Howe for seven years.

As a result, Reibel won both the Harry Gormely Award and the J. M. Citron Sportsmanship Cup, two local trophies. The latter was a forerunner of things to come for he was selected as the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy winner for the 1955-56 season.

He has suffered several serious injuries. In the 1953 playoffs he fractured his cheekbone. Two years later a sholder injury impaired his effectiveness. Yet he has shown the ability to recover, play over his injuries and to be one of the league's most efficient two-way players.

Reibel is unmarried. He is a smiling, fun-loving youngster. He makes Kitchener his permanent home, playing golf well and shuffle board with a high degree of skill in the off season.

TERRANCE GORDON SAWCHUK - Goaltender.

Born: Winnipeg, Manitoba, December 28, 1929. Height 5'11". Weight 190 lbs.

Few players have ever returned to their initial major league team with as much fanfare as goalie Terry Sawchuk. The brilliant Winnipeg youngster, whom the Red Wings traded to Boston in 1955, returned this summer after a prolonged series of negotiations, which received almost as much attention as Grace Kelly's marriage.

Sawchuk has one of the most impressive goalkeeping records in hockey history. He turned professional when he was still 17 with the Omaha Knights of the old United States league in 1947. He led the league in shutouts and won the rookie award in his freshman year. Two seasons at Indianapolis followed, and with the Capitols he duplicated his performance of being chosen the American League's outstanding rookie.

Five outstanding seasons with the Red Wings followed, when Terry replaced Harry Lumley, traded to Chicago, in the Detroit nets. In those five years his goalkeeping average never rose above 1.98. He played on five consecutive championship teams; won the Vezina Trophy three times; led the league in shutouts three times; made the first All Star Team three times and the second team in the other two years. He also equalled a league playoff record by turning in four consecutive home shutouts in the 1952 Stanley Cup competition when the Wings swept to hockey's highest honor in eight straigh games.

Terry was traded to the Bruins to make way for Glenn Hall. With Boston he performed equally well until stricken with mononucleosis in late 1956. He returned to the lineup, according to his judgments prematurely, and quickly retired from hockey.

Believing him "the greatest goalie in the world in a Detroit uniform", General Manager, Jack Adams, began negotiations immediately after the 1956-57 season, which culminated in early June with Detroit sending John Bucyk and cash to the Bruins for Sawchuk.

The 28-year-old Ukranian youngster is now a full-fledged Detroiter. He maintains a year-round residence in a Detroit suburb and has formed a small sales agency of his own centered at Plymouth, Michigan.

He is married and has three children.

Terry appears eager to start the campaign, reports himself in his best physical and mental condition in four years. Therefore, the Detroit management is extremely hopeful that he will once again display the brilliant touch that made him one of hockey's great netminders.

GORDON LYNN STRATE - Defense.

Born: Edmonton, Alberta, May 28, 1935. Height 6'1". Weight 190 lbs.

This husky Edmonton native is making his first real bid for a spot in the National League this season. A powerful 190 pound, six-footer, Strate (Stra-tee) came into the Wing organization first as a member of the Oil King sponsored junior club, which won the Western Junior championship and progressed to the Memorial Cup finals three years ago. He turned professional for the final two games of the season with the Flyers and the following year was loaned to Brandon of the Western League.

Last fall Strate moved to a regular spot on the Flyer rear guard corps and was promoted to the Wings for a brief five game look-see in late January. It was determined that he was not quite ready, but with the additional experience gained through the remainder of the season with Edmonton should now be fit to make his bid.

Strate is married and has one child. He is unique in being the only known member of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints (Mormonism) in professional hockey today.

NORMAN ULLMAN - Center

Born: Provost, Alberta, December 26, 1935. Height 5'10". Weight 175 lbs.

Perhaps the quietest young man ever to wear a Red Wing uniform is stocky, curly-haired Norm Ullman.

Although Ullman did not attain voting age until the day after Christmas last season, he was a already a veteran National League hockey player with over 100 games to his credit.

The quiet native of Provost, Alberta, began his career in the Detroit organization as the key forward of the Edmonton Oil King juniors. He led the Wing-sponsored club to the Memorial Cup finals in 1954 and was scheduled for a jump directly to the National League the following fall. However, an early August ankl injury suffered in a soft ball game delayed his appearance in training camp until the final week, and it was decided to put him in professional competition with the Wing-sponsored Edmonton Flyers.

Despite injuries which kept him out of ten games, Ullman was the fourth highest scorer for his team, which won both the season schedule and championship of the Western League.

The following season he moved, as planned, to the Red Wings, seeing limited duty as a third line center and spot player. His nine goal, nine assist total was creditable for a freshman.

Last year he was given the big spot centering for Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay, and here he performed in true big league style until a leg injury suffered in early February took him out of the lineup for five games. He failed to return to form over the remainder of the season but still ranked tenth among the National League point getters and third among the Red Wings.

He has a strong shot, a clever shift and a great stick handling talent.

Ullman, who is married and has one child, makes his permanent residence in Edmonton. He is employed by the city as a traffic engineer in the off season.

Born: Kincardine, Ontario, June 14, 1929. Height 5'10". Weight 165 lbs.

Back in the Red Wing fold after a two-season stint with the Chicago Black Hawks is sandy haired, chunky Johnny Wilson. Wilson is one of four players obtained from the Hawks in late July in the swap which sent Ted Lindsay and Glenn Hall to the Windy City.

Johnny has already proven himself to be a top-flight National Leaguer with six years of big time play under his belt.

Originally scouted at Shawinigan Falls with his brother Larry and Marcel Pronovost by Marcel Cote, Wilson joined the Windsor Spitfires in the season of 1947. When he graduated from the junior ranks, he began his climb up the professional ladder at Omaha, combining 41 goals and 39 assists for 80 points as a Knight. So promising was his freshman year that he was called to the Wings as a replacement during the playoffs that season, appearing in eight games and getting his name on the coveted Stanley Cup when the Wings defeated the New York Rangers in the final round.

A year and a half at Indianapolis followed in which Wilson's lesson was so well learned that he scored almost 100 points in a little more than 100 games and moved into a regular spot with the Wings midway in the 1951-52 season.

In three and a half years with the Redshirts he appeared in 238 games, scored 56 goals and 56 assists.

He was one of four players traded to Chicago during the summer of 1955 and continued his top-flight work with the Hawks bagging 24 tallies two years ago and 18 last season to bring his lifetime National League total to 98.

Now, the French-speaking, Scottish youngster appears destined to play left wing on the number one line with Gordie Howe as his alternate wing man.

A quiet, modest youngster, Wilson makes his permanent residence in Windsor. He is married and is employed in the off season as a public relations representative for a major Canadian distillery.
